

Eric Smith

Feb. 25 6-9pm

Business 101

Career Workshop

Career workshop is a great program at BYU-I that helps people to prepare to get employed in the job or field that they like. During this seminar we reviewed who we are and what our strengths and weaknesses are. We learned how to market ourselves and tell someone what skill we have for a job. We talked about how to be prepared for an interview like preparing a resume and cover letter and what to expect in an interview. The most important thing that we learned was to network and use those you know to get a job you would want. The things that we learned helped me to focus on what I am good and bad at and to know what to work on to improve. This will greatly help me as I go in for a job interview and can give specific examples of what attributes I have and examples of how I proved those attributes.

I like the quote given by President Gordon B. Hinckley saying, "There is nothing quite as invigorating as being able to evaluate and then solve a difficult problem, to grapple with something that seems almost unsolvable and then find a resolution." This is what Career workshop has taught me to do. Learn basic ways in preparing for future employment opportunities to come. I know that as I work and perfect my talents and interaction with others that I will be able to get a good job and as president Hinckley said, "Solve a difficult problem."