

Networking/ Mentors

Since I have come to BYU-Idaho I have grown to know how important it is to build up a network of people so I have options as to where I could get a internship and also to have mentors to lead me in things I would like to learn. The Bus 100 class has helped me to understand this and also the career workshop and vision conference.

I have five different mentors that I have chosen for the five major degrees in business. I had gotten there phone number to call them and talk with them about their field of work. I plan on keeping the line of talk with them so that they can be a mentor and person that I can turn to for questions. Maybe I will be able to find a job through these people. I have created an account on LinkedIn so I could get mentors that are a part of that. This is what I have done to get mentors in the different fields of business. I know that as I go into one specific degree that I will contact those that I know and find other people to be a mentor to me.

What I will do to get mentors and grow my network is to become friends with my fellow class mates. Through their knowledge or referrals I could expand my network. I also plan on going to one of the trips to companies to get an internship or job. This will get me an opportunity to me with several businesses and hopefully end out good for me. For now I am about to go on a two year mission and so I have to wait until I come back to really get serious about what my degree is and mentor that I could use for help.
