

Resume Review

1. The most important principle is to be consistent and organized in what you put on the Resume. This will help the reader to understand very quickly and it will show that you are organized with information.
2. Making the resume personal and formatted to the specific job type. This will also help to both be cool but will separate your application from others and better suit what they are looking for.
3. Along with formatting it helps if there is a brief description under the previous work experiences that describes what the job entailed.